IG BAU offers membership for migrant workers. This membership is suitable for you if you

It is your trade union in Germany for the construction and agricultural sectors. It has offices throughout Germany. A trade union is an association of employees. In Germany, trade unions are organized by sector.

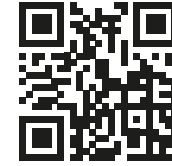

Together, we negotiate collective agreements for individual companies or entire sectors, which always offer better conditions than the law. We also support you with problems relating to labor and social law. Trade unions are financed by their members' contributions. This makes them independent of politics and employers. Membership is voluntary and the employer does not find out about it.
